

February 2019

Policy on feedback

Following a successful pilot study between September 2018 and February 2019, the whole school is trialling a new method of feedback. (The Trial guidelines are available under the Teaching and Learning section of this website.)

Principles which underpin our feedback policy are:

- Feedback is an essential part of effective teaching and learning.
- Feedback will support progress.
- Feedback will take many forms.
- Feedback will be regular.
- Students need dedicated lesson time to reflect and act upon the feedback given.
- Students' written corrections and responses to the feedback should be in purple.

Each department has spent time developing approaches to feedback which work best for their subject specialism.

Approaches to feedback may not only vary between subjects but also between ages and abilities of students in the same subject.

Departmental policies and schemes of work show how feedback takes place and how it supports progress. These policies can be accessed through the curriculum section of this website.
