

Moved by the state of the world? Outspoken about what's unfair? Excited about making a difference?

Oxfam is looking for motivated young people like you to help trial a new project – Youth Action Groups – and get skilled up and active as campaigners on international poverty issues.

Some people are happy with the status quo. It's pretty tough to challenge the way the world works. Sometimes it's worked that way a long time. Unjust laws, unfair rules, not enough reason to change.

Other people want to know why. They look at a bad situation and see what could be better. They want to know what they can do. When those people work together, the world moves.

Starting a Youth Action Group is your chance to join a movement for change. Oxfam is a vibrant global movement of dedicated people fighting poverty. Together. Doing amazing work. Together. People power drives everything we do. And we want you to join us.

This is a brand new project and Oxfam is looking for groups to participate in a pilot. We want to support you to work with other people around you to explore key issues, learn how to campaign effectively and turn your ideas into real action on issues like climate change, health and education.

From making a video message, to designing posters, to inviting your local MP to school, working with others in a Youth Action Group won't just help you build your skills, you'll have a real impact raising the profile of crucial issues in your school and community too.

Find out more about Youth Action Groups today via the contact details below.

Jo-Anne Witcombe

Youth & Schools Campaigner
Green Fish Resource Centre, 46-50 Oldham Street, Manchester, M4 1LE

jwitcombe@oxfam.org.uk

0161 234 2793